sound 2008 - a festival with sax appeal

- 2008 festival features themed weekends for first time
- Four-day focus on the saxophone with appearances by Rob Hall, Andy Scott, SaxAssault, Martin Kershaw, Charlotte Harding and others
- Kim Cascone among world-renowned electro-acoustic musicians participating in the Festival
- Classical world premieres from Sally Beamish, Pippa Murphy and Thea Musgrave amongst others
- “Silent Witness” soprano, Sarah Leonard, performs in former Salmon Bothy (Portsoy)
- danceLive! joins forces with sound 2008

The 2008 sound festival, initial details of which were unveiled today Friday 11 July, will see over 70 events taking place between Tuesday 21 October and Monday 17 November. Scotland's only dedicated new music festival, now in its fourth year, is set to feature two themed weekends for the first time - one dedicated to the saxophone and the second to classical and electro-acoustic music – alongside a wide range of recitals, workshops, masterclasses and community events.

“sound has continued to grow since its inception, expanding both its repertoire and geographic spread,” says Festival Co-ordinator, Fiona Robertson “This year we are thrilled to be able to offer a showcase for some of the world's leading classical and electro-acoustic musicians and to celebrate the saxophone as both jazz and classical instrument.”

“Particularly exciting this year is the addition of new venues including the recently refurbished Salmon Bothy in Portsoy and the Beach Ballroom which will be the hub for the community saxophone day and concert with Andy Scott, Richard Ingham and Charlotte Harding.”

The success of sound to date was underlined earlier this year when the Scottish Arts Council awarded the Festival flexible funding status. “It is difficult to believe that sound has only existed in its current form for three years, as it has become in that short time a significant member of the Scottish festivals circuit,” says Ian Smith, Head of Music Scottish Arts Council. “sound has quickly established itself as a facilitator and promoter of contemporary music and is an excellent example of how to inspire community involvement at all levels.”

As always, sound will feature a number of Classical Premieres. The opening concert, to be given by the BBCSSO under the direction of Andrew Litton, will include a new work by the winner of the 2007 Aberdeen music prize, Woojun Lee; the Scottish Flute Trio will perform three World Premieres including a new work from Thea Musgrave, who this year celebrates her 80th birthday, and the Scottish Ensemble will give a pre-concert showcase of two works by spnm short-listed composers. This year's Composers' Day will see Judith Weir, Roberto Fabbriciani and John Casken working with local and amateur composers, whilst the master-class programme features Italian Flautist – Roberto Fabriciani, Palestinian singer- Reem Kelani; Irish violinist Darragh Morgan; and cellist Robin Michael.

New and old venues

sound 2008 will include performances in venues that have been the mainstay of the Festival since its inception including the University of Aberdeen and Woodend Barn, Banchory. Once again Sir Philip Astor opens up the historic Migvie church for the Festival and this year sees the first concert in the former Salmon Bothy in Potsoy (a performance featuring celebrated soprano Sarah Leonard) and concerts in the Institute of Medical Sciences – a working building with a remarkable acoustic - and Beach Ballroom.

Contemporary Music and Dance join forces

danceLive!, the showcase of contemporary dance will this year coincide with sound creating a multi art-form extravaganza in the North East in the autumn.

Notes for Editors

- sound is the North East of Scotland's festival of new music. Following a pilot event, "Upbeat" in 2004, the first festival was launched in November 2005. sound is now an annual event, which aims to make new and contemporary music more accessible to audiences of all ages and backgrounds by presenting an eclectic but very broad range of contemporary music - classical, traditional, popular, jazz, experimental - through a wide range of events including concerts, talks, electro-acoustic installations, and workshops.
- As well as programming its own events, sound operates as an umbrella for a range of concerts, workshops, masterclasses and performances programmed by other organisations in the North East.
- Dame Evelyn Glennie DBE is current Patron of the festival

sound is supported by Aberdeen City Council, Aberdeenshire Council, Aberdeen Endowments Trust, Astor of Hever Trust, EventScotland Regional Events Programme, Hope Scott Trust, Hugh Fraser Foundation, Petro-Canada, PRS Foundation, RVW Trust, Scottish Arts Council & the University of Aberdeen.

- The Scottish Arts Council is a Non-Departmental Public Body (NDPB) which was established by Royal Charter in 1994 and is also a Lottery distributor. The organisation serves the people of Scotland by fostering arts of excellence through investment, development, research and advocacy. Our corporate aims are: to support artists to fulfil their creative and business potential; to increase participation in the arts; and to place the arts, culture and creativity at the heart of learning. We invest £60m each year, including £15 million of National Lottery funding. For more information visit: www.scottisharts.org.uk
